

Students Helping Honduras (SHH) is a non-profit organization founded on the vision of a single college student. Today, there are chapters all over the United States sharing a goal of building 1,000 schools in rural Honduras for communities with little to no access to education. Our mission is to alleviate extreme poverty and gang violence in Honduras through education and youth empowerment.

The James Madison University chapter of Students Helping Honduras takes part in this movement by fundraising for a school throughout the year. Last spring we raised over $16,000. For spring of 2019, our goal is to exceed $25,000. To do this, we are planning our first annual One Night, One School Brick by Brick Gala. We are reaching out to communities all over Virginia in hopes to partner with others who share the same interest in creating sustainable economies and providing the necessary resources for children to become future leaders of their community.

This One Night, One School Gala will also have a silent auction that we encourage businesses to sponsor. This allows JMU SHH to give back to the Harrisonburg community while also reaching our goal.

OUR PROJECT: Centro Educación Básica Apoyo Francisco Morazán

Centro Educación Básica Apoyo Francisco Morazán (CEB Francisco Morozán) in Santa Rita, Yoro, Honduras.

For 59 years, this education center was an all-girls school. However, when finding out that the nearby boy's school was shutting down, Francisco Morozán welcomed the other male students in. Although many extracurricular classes such as art, music, literature, and English are offered, the building being used had to be demolished as it was deemed unsafe for use for the students, 20 teachers, and one psychologist. In an effort to provide sustainable education for the youth at CEB Francisco Morazán, it is our hope that you will partner with us in our mission.
